WILSON IS GIVEN LIFE IMPRISONMENT FOR DESERT MURDER

FORMER CLEVELAND STEEL CHEMIST ESCAPES CHAIR BY NARROW MARGIN

EL PASO, Dec. 13.—(P)—Arthur C. Wilson was convicted of murder for the desert slaying of Mrs. Irene De Bolt, Ohio widow, today by a jury which fixed his penalty at life imprisonment.

Before a courtroom crowded with women, the jury of 12 men, which began its deliberations at 5:55 p. m. (MST) yesterday, brought in a written verdict.

Wilson was obviously nervous as the jury entered, but smiled at his attorneys.

Mrs. De Bolt was found slain west of Van Horn, Tex., November 7, 1933, her body stripped of clothes and $1,650 in currency.

Her automobile was missing. The prosecution said Wilson, her companion on an automobile trip westward from Cleveland, had beaten and strangled her to death for her money.

As Wilson, 29-year-old former steel chemist, was led from the courtroom he grinned at Leo Rattigan, a brother of the slain woman.

Swings At Prisoner. Rattigan leaped to his feet and swung his fist toward Wilson. A deputy sheriff sprang between the men and averted the blow.

The spectators were quiet as Judge W. D. Howe mounted the bench at 8:49.

"Have you reached a verdict, gentlemen?" the judge inquired. "Yes, Sir," responded the foreman. Normal again, passing a slip of paper to the court clerk.

When the clerk finished reading, Judge Howe pointed out that the verdict failed to specify the place of confinement as required.

The jury was directed to retire again for a moment and returned with the specification that Wilson should serve his life sentence at the state prison which is located at Huntsville, Texas.

Eleven For Death. The jury deliberated four hours and 12 minutes. One juror indicated the first ballot taken last night before dinner was unanimous for conviction. When the question of penalty was taken up on the second ballot the jury stood eleven for execution and one against it. In the remaining deliberations the sentence of life imprisonment was agreed upon.

Wilson, who was apprehended in Port of Spain, Trinidad, posing as a ship's steward some eight months after the crime, offered only brief defense of character depositions and did not take the stand himself.

Comments on Remarks. He was in court early this morning, commenting to questioners on the "careful remark" directed at him after the jury retired.

ABC SOCIETY HAS BROKEN WITH CUBAN GOVERNMENT HEADS

NIGHT RAID ON OPPOSITION NEWSPAPER IS TERMED DECLARATION WAR

By EDMUND A. CHESTER Associated Press Foreign Staff. HAVANA, Dec. 13.—(P)—The strong ABC Political society said today an allegedly government-inspired raid on its newspaper, Accion, is "equivalent to a declaration of war."

The statement of the society's central committee came as the government took every precaution against uprisings. Rumors of impending revolt raced over the island, torn by months of political dissension and violence.

Last night a group of armed men entered the editorial rooms of the anti-government newspaper, official organ of the ABC group, and forced nine editorial workers to accompany them to the outskirts of Havana, where the victims were made to take castor oil.

Forty armed police took over offices of the newspaper. They told editors "There will be no paper this morning on orders of Colonel Pedraza (chief of Havana police)."

Broke Months Ago. The ABC society broke several months ago with the government of President Cardenas, forcing its members within the cabinet to resign. Accion has

AMERICAN MISSION WORKERS IN CHINA FOUND MURDERED

BODIES J. C. STAM AND WIFE, RECENTLY KIDNAP-ED, REPORTED FOUND

SHANGHAI, Dec. 13.—(P)—The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stam, American missionaries, were reported to the China inland mission office today in a cryptic telegram from its Wuhu office.

The message read: "Stam's bodies found miles from Tsinghai."

Further details were not included in the message from Wuhu and the mission office here was extending every effort to obtain more information.

Since no mention was made in the telegram of the two-months' old baby of the young missionary couple, the mission authorities did not know whether the baby's body likewise had been found or whether the kidnapers who captured the Stams in southern Anhwei province several days ago might still be holding the child.

The mission at Wuhu had been informed of the finding of the bodies by the governor of Anhwei province who said he had received a message reading: "Bodies of John and Betty Stam found near Tsinghai."

Mr. Stam's parents are residents of Paterson, N. J., and Mrs. Stam's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Scott live in Holyoke, Mass. Mr. Stam was graduated from Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill.

STATE RESTED ITS CASE AGAINST HUEY, SLAYER OF BORGER

PROSECUTION SUCCEEDS IN GETTING DESIRED TESTIMONY BEFORE JURY

CANADIAN, Dec. 13.—(P)—The State rested today in the murder trial of Arthur Huey, Hutchinson county tax collector charged with the slaying of A. P. (Ace) Borger.

The prosecution succeeded in putting into the record testimony concerning L. J. Duncan, a bystander, who was wounded fatally by Huey during the postoffice shooting last Aug. 1 in which Borger was killed.

A controversy over that testimony yesterday halted presentation of evidence and brought about a court recess. Much of the evidence today was offered over defense objections.

Mrs. Duncan, widow of the slain man, took the stand to tell her version of the shooting. She testified she went to the postoffice, followed by her husband. She saw Huey enter the building and a short time later, heard an explosion and saw Huey and Borger scuffling. She said she ran out of the door after seeing the two flashes of gunfire.

On the outside, Mrs. Duncan said her husband told her he had been shot and for her to get in.

L. C. Barrow Is Convicted Charge Of Robbing Store

DALLAS, Dec. 13.—(P)—L. C. Barrow, brother of the slain outlaw, Clyde and Buck Barrow, was convicted today of robbery with firearms and sentenced to five years imprisonment. The jury found him guilty of participating in the $29 robbery of W. B. Dougherty's drug store here the night of Oct. 27.

Young Barrow attempted to establish an alibi, claiming he was at a dance the night of the robbery. Several defense witnesses supported his plea. The state, through Dougherty and George Henry Giddings, employee of the store, positively identified him as one of the three gunmen.

The defendant's brother, Clyde, and Bonnie Parker, were shot to death by officers in Louisiana a few months ago, ending an intensive hunt for the outlaw couple. Buck was killed in a gun fight with Iowa officers.

Barrow was convicted some time ago and given a five year suspended sentence for automobile theft. Other charges are on file against him in automobile theft and robbery cases.

SCORES BURN TO DEATH IN HOTEL FIRE

Allred Opposes Naming Special Texas Rangers

AUSTIN, Dec. 13.—(P)—Governor-elect James V. Allred today denounced promiscuous issuance of special ranger commissions of which more than 1,000 now are on file with the adjutant general.

Asserting he has been besieged with applications for special appointment to the ranger force, Allred said, if any, such commissions and he would recommend legislation to limit issuance.

"I have been besieged with applications from all over the state for appointment as special rangers," he said. "Many of them are for renewals of present commissions."

"I seriously doubt the authority of the governor to issue special ranger commissions under ordinary conditions and am opposed as a general rule to the issuance of such commissions."

CHAIRMAN OF RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION AND BIG BANKERS IN NEW FRIENDLY ROW

By FREDERICK GARDNER Associated Press Financial Writer NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(P)—Another friendly spat between Jesse H. Jones, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and the austere bankers of Wall Street, seemed to have developed today.

This time it is over the real estate mortgage situation. The controversy was touched off by what Jones told the Bond Club yesterday. He said he was ashamed "to admit the lack of interest and co-operation shown here and elsewhere" in RFC efforts to interest bankers and business men in rebuilding mortgage institutions.

Despite memories of some of the thrills the Texan had made at them before, including his admonition to them last year to "be smart for once" and loosen up on loans, bankers gave the RFC chairman a hearty greeting and laughed uproariously at his jokes.

TWENTY-SIX KNOWN DEAD IN FIRE; TWENTY-THREE BODIES BEEN RECOVERED

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 13.—(P)—Authorities today increased their list of "known dead" in the Hotel Kerns fire to 30 names, and said they believed it was complete.

Unless further additions to the list should prove necessary only six bodies are in the ruins, which continue to burn fitfully, or in the Grand river, at the rear of the tragedy site. Several terrified guests leaped into the stream when fire roused them from sleep Tuesday morning.

Twenty-four bodies have been recovered from the smoldering wreckage. Firemen expressed the belief that some of the bodies had been reduced to ashes by the terrific heat.

Seventeen of the dead have been identified. A city-wide memorial was planned for Saturday, to be preceded by two minutes of silence, while church bells tolled.

KENNAMER CHARGES IMPORTANT WITNESS IN CASE WAS SLAIN

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 13.—(P)—Sheriff Charles Price today discounted the story of Phil Kennamer yesterday told of the slaying of 20-year-old John Gorrell and said he did not contemplate arresting several youths allegedly named by the admitted killer of the student dentist Thanksgiving night.

"We haven't got enough on any of those fellows to arrest them," said Sheriff Price. "You can't take that fellow's story at its face value."

At the same time it was learned from the father of one boy alleged by Kennamer to have

SENATE MUNITIONS COMMITTEE EXPOSES WORLD WAR BUSINESS

ROOSEVELT SMOOTHED THE RUFFLED FEELINGS OF PROBING SENATORS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(P)—Huge war-time profits ranging as high as 800 per cent for a mining company and 362 per cent for a manufacturer of war material were disclosed today by the senate munitions committee.

Members of the Bethlehem Loading company in 1918 were given as $151,518 of 362 per cent. Those of the Calumet and Hecla Mining company in 1917 were listed as $9,500,000 or 800 per cent.

This was developed shortly after President Roosevelt had suggested close cooperation between his group to formulate legislation to take the profits out of war and the senate investigators.

This apparently lessened the irritation displayed by committee members yesterday because the President had gone ahead before they had completed their inquiry.

Investigators placed before the committee figures from the internal revenue bureau showing profits for scores of companies ran from 20 per cent of invested capital to 362 per cent.

After C. Hiss, committee investigator who conducted the inquiry, developed that in many cases the profits were made on cost plus contracts and that in some instances cash was advanced to the companies by the government to finance their production.

Some War Time Profits. Some of the time profits figures filed with the committee, together with the percentage of invested capital on which they were made, were:

American Brass Company, 1917, $13,427,757, 23 per cent.
Bethlehem Steel Corporation, 1917, $61,810,017, 43 per cent.
Jones and Laughlin Steel Company, 1917, $48,869,577, 47 per cent.

Colt's Patent Fire Arms Company, 1917, $48,869,577, 47 per cent.

FORMULATE REFORM PROGRAM TO MAKE CRIME PROFITLESS FOR NEXT LEGISLATIVE MEET

(Editor's Note.—This is the last of a series of three stories on the problems that will confront the legislature in January.)

By CHARLES E. SIMONS (Associated Press Staff Writer). AUSTIN, Dec. 13.—(P)—Crime would be less profitable, apprehension speeded and justice made more certain if a criminal reform program being formulated for presentation to the legislature in January is enacted into law.

With the eyes of the nation focused on Texas when the notorious Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, his feminine consort, and Raymond Hamilton, Buckle Thompson and Joe Palmer and other lesser figures of the criminal world blasted a path of crime across the state, the legislature decided something should be done to curb outlaw depredations.

A special senate committee is making an investigation into the crime situation to determine what corrective laws are needed. A special house committee has been delegated the task of revising procedure to speed criminals to trial, cut red tape and eliminate reversals on technical errors unless they have a substantial bearing on the outcome of the case.

Points to Be Offered. Out of the confusion of ideas as to the best method of clamping the lid down on criminal activities these will be offered to the legislature:

1. Establishment of a state criminal identification bureau to facilitate the identity of criminals before and after arrest.

2. Co-ordination of state law enforcement agencies and equipment of the consolidated unit with the most modern weapons and facilities.

3. Creation of a non-partisan and non-political board of pardons.

EDDIE CANTOR SOON DISCOVERS THAT MUSSOLINI HAS NO TIME TO SMILE AT HIS WISE CRACKS

(Editor's Note.—Eddie Cantor, American comedian, has written the Associated Press the following account of his interview with Premier Mussolini yesterday in Rome.)

By EDDIE CANTOR (Copyright, 1934, By Associated Press). MILAN, Italy, Dec. 13.—When I first went in to see Premier Mussolini I thought to make him laugh. But the man's intense seriousness pretty soon changed my tactics.

Il Duce was greatly interested in my proposals for producing Italian pictures in Italy with Italian scenery as a background, but with American actors and American capital.

I told him America can't produce enough good pictures to fill the theatre and satisfy the insatiable demand for good films. We have hundreds of millions of dollars worth of film properties to feed films.

I believe stars who are even under contract with studios would come to Italy on their vacations and while here make pictures. They would be good good-will visitors from America and American film industries.

Second Only to Roosevelt. Premier Mussolini, I believe after my audience, to be the second greatest person, lity in the world. President Roosevelt is first, of course. But there are a lot of republicans in the United States who say Mussolini is still first.

I told him many people in Italy criticize American films only because they are American. But when we see the liner Rex coming into New York—why should not Italians be happy at seeing the best films in the world, just as we are happy at seeing the finest boat in the world.

A mistaken idea is that it takes great capital to make swell films.

Mystery Fires At Two Wells Of Texas Company

PAMPA, Dec. 13.—(P)—Mysterious fires broke out last night at two Texas Company wells, destroying one rig.

The Texas fire department quelled the blaze at the No. 2, H. M. Davis well after some damage was done. The well, five miles south of Pampa, was shut down for the night.

The company's No. 13, J. B. Bowers, ten mile south of Pampa, ignited about the same time, the rig burning to the ground. The fire department arrived too late.

An investigation of the fires was started. The Texas Company posted a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons guilty of setting fire to or otherwise damaging property of the company.

At the same time, the company disclosed that a rig had been damaged by fire a week ago in Carson county. It was at the No. 4 T. J. Boney well.

Since a recent strike of some of the Texas Company's employees, guards have been posted on leases, but there was none near the two wells where there were fires last night.

RELIGION'S MYSTERY RESIDES IN A MEMORIAL SACRAMENT *

Glimpses of the Hidden Real Life of Men and Women Revealed at the Lord's Supper—When the Greatest Heart of All Was Un-bared to Friends.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

I lead a double life. So do you. So does everybody. First, there is the life of the home and the market place—the clothes we wear, the words we say, the tasks that engross us, our pleasures, and all the superficial impression we make upon those whom we meet day by day. That is the life which has a reputation for "man looketh on the outward appearance."

But that is nobody's real life. It is only the frame of the picture. One's real life and true personality are expressed in one's thoughts, emotions, affections. All the true standards of value for a human being are found in his inner nature—the satisfactions of his spirit.

All unsuspected by his neighbors, every man lives a life apart, in the secret places of the soul. He may, in the world's estimation, be successful and happy, though all the while the forces of fear and defeat and misery may be gnawing at his heart. Or he may be regarded lightly by Mrs. Grundy, whose eyes never see beyond the surface of things; and yet all the while the bird of peace and joy may be singing in his breast.

Write it down as one of the ultimate truths, that success or failure, happiness or discontent, are all within ourselves, beyond the reach of any other person.

Into The Upper Room. We are introduced into the Upper Room of spiritual reality by the lesson. It penetrates into the Holy of holies of life. For it deals with the sacramental experience of the Christian at the Lord's Supper; when the worshiper, in loving remembrance, partakes of the soul's food and enters into communion with the very life of the Eternal, whom we know as our loving Father and as a sacrificial Savior.

This is a sacrament of remembrance and of intimacy. The Upper Room is crowded with tenderest memories. Of the real Upper Room itself—perhaps in the home of John Mark, Leuchter's friend, there is little to be said. The traditional site, which is shown to tourists, in the southwest corner of Jerusalem, is, of course, not authentic. The old city has been laid waste too many times for the actual building to have survived. I have only once visited the place; because there is nothing about it to recall the sacred associations of that last night of the Savior's life before the Garden and Calvary, when He had a secret rendezvous with His friends and opened His bursting heart to them.

A Lonely Man's Yearning. Wandering through Europe's galleries, a visitor is impressed by the tendency of earlier art to dehumanize Jesus. He was all dehumanized with a nimbus, and His clothes were etherealized to the limit of the artist's ability. Later times have rescued Christ from the realm of unreality. We nowadays stress His complete humanity and that He "was accepted in all points like as we are, yet without sin." We delight to depict Him, as the lonely, weary, tireless worker, a trained mechanic, a man among men.

As we approach the incident of the Last Supper, set in the midst of the best-thumbed passages in the Bible, we are aware of the heart-hunger of the Savior for the companionship and sympathy of the little group of His chosen friends. He provided all the extraordinary precautions for this farewell Passover, in order that the fellowship might not be interrupted by the hounds of hate that were barking dangerously close to His heels.

So, when the Passover had been kept after the manner of all good Jews, Jesus established, as a memorial rite, the Last Supper, of symbolical bread and wine. Oh, yes; there is more to it than a reminder of a tender keepsake, a token of a dear one gone. But it is that first of all; like a precious home usage transmitted in a family throughout generations. "This do in remembrance to Me."

A Token of Endless Life. Wrapped up in the sacrament of the Lord's Supper is all the mystery of transmitted spiritual power. In partaking of the simple elements of bread and wine, the believing disciple partakes of the very life of Christ Himself. Here is food for the soul, a sharing of all that Jesus was and continues to be. Imagination is stirred by contemplation of all the generations of Christians—millions upon uncounted millions of individuals—who, in every land and nation, have reverently gathered at the Lord's table, to seek the sustenance for their spirits, their real selves.

My own memory lingers over sacramental services in far-separated and strange places—communion on the battlefield; in a tiny native chapel in mid-China; in a mission church in Egypt, amidst the roar of the non-Christian world outside; in a Highland Scotch kirk; in a small room in the Syrian mountains which Jesus Himself knew and loved; and in not a few of the city and country churches of Christendom.

What a universal hunger this spiritual feast appeases! The best of life is sustained by the Bread of Life. Religion is not a matter of rules, but the outward expression of an inner life.

Four Ways. This marvelous memorial—mightier than any monument or cathedral ever built—points in four directions. First of all, the Galley Two—S. S. Lesson—December 14. It looks back to Jesus, and all that He was and taught. Because the Savior wanted His friends to keep a memorial trust with Him, He gave them this rite. And throughout the ages the first function of the church has been to make vivid and tender and devoted thoughts of Jesus Christ Himself. At His table, His friends meet Him.

Secondly, the feast pointed forward—forward to the cross and to the sacred symbol of the wine, when the blood poured out and by the blood, as representing the broken body. In the near foreground, just outside the Upper Room, loomed Calvary. Still further, the sacrament pointed forward to the time, then drawing near, when Jesus would no longer be with His friends in the flesh; but near them at a perpetual rendezvous at the communion table.

Again, and fourthly, the Lord's Supper not only looks backward and forward and inward, but it also looks upward. It is a pledge of heaven, when the disciples and the Master will drink the cup together anew in the Father's Kingdom. In sorrow and weakness we may partake now; but some day, in fullness of freedom and joy and holiness, we shall sit down at the supper of the Lamb that was slain. Then our real life, the secret, inner life of the spirit, will be our only life.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(P)—Six states were said today by Chester A. Davis, farm administrator, to have paid slightly more than three-fifths of all the processing tax which has been collected on wheat.

W. T. WAGGONER DIES AT FT. WORTH HOME ON TUESDAY NIGHT

FATHER OF TEXAS HORSE
RACING AMASSED GREAT
FORTUNE CATTLE, OIL

PORT WORTH, Dec. 12.—(P)—Funeral services for W. T. Waggoner, 82, Fort Worth capitalist and pioneer West Texas cattleman and oil man, who died here Tuesday at 8 p. m., have been tentatively arranged for Thursday morning. The funeral will be in the family mausoleum in East Oakwood cemetery.

Waggoner was the largest fortune teller in the Mississippi river on cattle and oil. He died at the age of 82.

The capitalist and horse racing enthusiast died at his home here last night as the result of a stroke of paralysis suffered Sunday.

He had been in ill health since 1933 when he suffered a previous stroke. He had recovered sufficiently, however, to attend the races last month at Arlington Downs, the racing plant between here and Dallas which stands as a monument to his love of fine horses.

Waggoner was a cattleman and horseman first, and above all, it was on cattle that his fortune was founded. In his later years oil was discovered under a huge slice of his wide landholdings and added more millions than the ranch business had produced, but he retained his livestock interests.

Loved Horseflesh. It was on the range, too, that his love of competing horses began. There was keen competition between him and Burk Burnett, a ranching contemporary, in the matter of fast cow ponies.

Waggoner lived in Port Worth for nearly 30 years, but had retained active management of his holdings.

He was a leader in civic enterprises here. Honors bestowed upon him in that connection included designation by the Exchange Club of Port Worth's most distinguished citizen and presentation by a citizens' committee in 1929 of a $5,000 trophy in appreciation of his work in behalf of this city.

His illness prevented him from attending the banquet at which the "most distinguished citizen" award was celebrated in 1933, but speakers on that occasion praised him for business acumen coupled with scrupulous fairness, his powers of leadership, and his willingness to lend himself to deserving causes.

Father Texas Racing. In more than name he was the "father of horse racing in Texas." He first became interested in thoroughbred racing in 1897, and built up a creditable stable on his ranch near Electra.

His silks were retired from the nation's racing ovals from 1909, when the sport was banned in Texas, to 1924, but since that year he and his two sons had built up the Three D stable, which produced numerous winners at the track.

Almost unaided at the start he carried on the fight to legalize racing again in Texas. Gradually his following grew until in 1933 the legislature passed and Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson signed a bill permitting pari-mutuel betting at tracks.

It was on the day after the governor signed the measure that he was stricken the first time.

Built Arlington Downs. In the meantime, however, he had invested sums estimated as high as $3,000,000 in building Arlington Downs one of the country's fastest and most beautiful tracks. He had conducted brief meetings there without gambling even before the pari-mutuels were legalized.

It was one of the tragedies of his life that encroaching blindness made him able to see only the dim outlines of the speeding thoroughbreds, competing legally on his own track, after the legislature passed the measure.

THREE CCC BOYS BURNED TO DEATH NEAR NORRIS DAM

FIRE SWEEP CLEAR CREEK
CONSERVATION CORPS
CAMP EARLY TODAY

NORRIS, Tenn., Dec. 12.—(P)—Three CCC boys were burned to death today when a fire, whipped by a stiff breeze, destroyed three pine-board barracks of their camp, a mile from the government's new Norris dam.

Charles De Palma, 21, East Orange, N. J., was identified as one of the dead.

Elwood Kramer, 20, Nutley, N. J., and Jacob Klein, 20, Bronx, New York City.

The fire which broke out in ten degree weather at the Clear Creek CCC camp early today swept through the camp and left over 200 others shivering in their night clothes.

Four CCC workers were slightly burned as they fled from their bunks. The camp is located on hillside and a high wind carried the fire through it almost before officers could give the alarm.

The damage was estimated at about $12,000. Camp records were destroyed in the fire.

Leut. Finger said, however, that the unit, commanded by Captain Douglas S. Mages, of Buffalo, N. Y., was made up of residents of New York and New Jersey.

Leut. Finger said the fire started at 10 o'clock at the first barracks number 1, which contains headquarters for officers. He said he did not know the cause, but that the first alarm was when some of the boys woke up and yelled "fire."

Immediately the officers aroused and hurried to spread the alarm. The boys rushed out into the night, not having time to put on clothes or rescue any of their personal effects. All their clothes except those they wore were burned.

Former Corsicanan Returns for Visit After Many Years

Bryan Talbot, native Corsicanan, and member of a prominent Corsicana family of several decades ago, is visiting his old home town for the first time in 31 years, and is receiving a warm welcome from his many childhood friends who still remain here.

Mr. Talbot is now making his headquarters in Port Arthur, and is connected with the mechanical research department of the Texas Company. He was at one time a route carrier for the Daily Sun and visited the office Wednesday.

During the World War Mr. Talbot was connected with the Curtiss Airplane Corporation and was sent abroad by the government as a technician of the air force. He now works as a world for his company, having just returned from Mexico City and will leave for Buenos Aires just after January 1, 1935.

He is stopping at the Navarro Hotel and will be here for a few days, renewing old friendships.

Texarkana Man Kills Wife And Then Himself

TEXARKANA, Dec. 12.—(P)—W. E. Preston shot his wife to death and then killed himself at their cottage here today.

Neighbors, hearing the woman shriek, went to the cottage and found her dead. They said Preston, 36, was reloading his gun and that he drove them from the house before firing a bullet into his own head.

Neighbors told police that Preston had been drinking since an early hour this morning and had fired his pistol up and down the street while residents covered behind closed doors.

A crowd rushed to the Preston home after shot from its interior was heard, followed by the shriek. One man started to enter the house, police were informed but Preston pointed a gun at him and backed him out of the house.

He then went to the bathroom and into another part of the house, police were informed, and after laying across the bed in the room where his wife's body was on the floor shot himself.

Preston was unemployed. Justice of the Peace G. W. Ragland returned a coroner's verdict of murder and suicide.

FIVE PERSONS ARE SERIOUSLY BURNED FERRIS WHEEL FIRE

HARLINGEN, Dec. 12.—(P)—Five persons were under treatment for serious burns in Weslaco and McAllen today, and four others were less seriously burned, as the result of the explosion of a gasoline engine which turned a Ferris wheel at Weslaco's 15th birthday celebration yesterday.

The most serious injuries were suffered by Jim Bennett, 38, of Texarkana, who removed his coat and sought to protect his girl companions with it when their seat was suspended in the midst of roaring flames as the wheel stopped.

His clothing was burned from his body and he suffered extensive secondary burns.

Others still in hospitals were Josephine Durham, 15, of Weslaco, Jewell Davis, 14, Josephine Pierce, 14, and Joana Beaumont, 11, all of Weslaco.

A number of passengers on the device were endangered while flames roared about them and could be released only when the fire had been put out and the wheel had been turned by hand.

STERILIZATION OF TEXAS INSANE IS RECOMMENDED

AUSTIN, Dec. 12.—(P)—Sterilization of Texas insane was hailed today by the state board of mental and physical defects of eleemosynary institutions, as the only known method for prevention of hereditary types of insanity, imbecility and idiocy.

The board commended the plan to the Texas legislature for a study of "merit and practicability of legally applying sterilization in Texas."

Sterilization of insane was incorporated in a two-point recommendation in the board's annual report for prevention of insanity. The other phase was a mental hygiene program in which services of expert psychiatrists would be made available through public schools and juvenile court for treatment of incipient and corrective cases.

Under the supervision and inspection fee the public utilities are required to pay a sliding scale public service commission with a fee for general expenses of the fee maximum of $1,000.

HUEY LONG MAKES THREATS AGAINST UTILITY CONCERNS

WOULD INCREASE FEES IF COMPANIES FOUGHT LEGAL-
ITY OF NEW LAWS

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 13.—(P)—Senator Huey Long today threatened to have a special session of the Louisiana legislature called to contest the public utilities if they contest the act of the last session which authorized an investigation of their rates.

The threat was issued by Long during a verbal tilt at the opening session of the Louisiana Public Service Commission investigation which Long said was to force "lower rates" on telephones, gas and electricity in Louisiana.

Charles Rosen, attorney for New Orleans Public Service, Inc., informed the Public Service Commission that his company would go to court and test the legality of the act which forces the utilities to pay the expenses of the investigation.

To this, Long, as special counsel for the Public Service Commission, replied that "if you do that we will call a special session and increase the supervision and inspection fee. All we want to do is lower the rates."

Under the supervision and inspection fee the public utilities are required to pay a sliding scale public service commission with a fee for general expenses of the fee maximum of $1,000.

BLOUSES TO "PEP-UP" THE LIMITED WARDROBE

by Anne Adams

Patterns 1947 and 2002

Everyone who's ever tried to make a clothes budget stretch until it creaks, will agree that there is nothing like a couple of new well-tailored blouses to pep up the limited wardrobe. Those sketched today, for instance, Pattern 1947, with its chic double-breasted effect, attached belt and round collar would be "just the thing" to top a smart, two-piece outfit. And for times when a soft, feminine outfit is in order, pattern 2002, with its double ruffling jabot and wing-like sleeve flares, would certainly fill the bill. If you prefer, the flares may be omitted. Both may be made with long or short sleeves. Taffeta, satin and crepe are favorite fabrics.

Pattern 1947 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42. Size 16 takes 1-3/4 yards 36 inch fabric. Price 15c.

Pattern 2002 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42. Size 16 takes 2 yards 39 inch fabric. Price 15c. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern. Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Anne Adams pattern. Thirty cents (30c) for both. Write name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Send for your copy of the Anne Adams Winter Sewing Book. Crowded with exclusive patterns for the child, the young girl and the matron. Price of Book Fifteen cents but when ordered with an Anne Adams pattern it is only ten cents. Twenty-five cents for both.

Address orders to the Daily Sun Pattern Department, 243 West 17th street, New York City.

TEXAS RANGES ARE REPORTED IN POOR CONDITION STILL

AUSTIN, Dec. 13.—(P)—Texas range conditions were reported "still poor" today by the United States department of agriculture despite a two-per cent improvement during November in contrast to a normal decline.

Ranges were estimated of 52 per cent condition, compared with 71 per cent of normal last year and a 10-year average of 80 per cent.

"Conditions remain very poor in the western third of the state," the department said. "The most serious situation now exists in the southwestern half of the Edwards Plateau and in the extreme western district which embraces the Big Bend country."

Late November rains failed to reach those areas and "practically the only feeds available are native drought resisting plants such as Sotol and Prickly pear."

While many ranchers were feeding, "ranges are still too heavily stocked for the feed available."

SOUTH POLAR AREA ONCE HAD MILD BUT HUMID CLIMATE

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Dec. 13.—(P)—(via Mackay Radio)—The possibility that the South Polar region might once have had a mild but humid climate was advanced today as a result of discoveries of coal and fossils by a geological party on the Byrd expedition.

The find was made by a geological group headed by Quin Blackburn. The new coal fields and sandstone containing the fossils were discovered 153 nautical miles from the South Pole at the head of Thorne glacier in the Queen Maud range.

"Our present camp is on a moraine at the immediate base of a mountain capped with sedimentary strata containing several beds of coal and plant-bearing sandstone," Blackburn messaged the home base by radio.

Blackburn reported "we have sighted numerous new mountains and glaciers."

Economic conditions, shorter working hours in the mechanical department and increased cost of production cause the publishers to take this step.

BUSINESS BETTER.

In spite of the turmoil in Europe there appears to be a consistent improvement in business conditions in most of the great commercial and industrial nations. The summary published by the U. S. department of commerce from reports of the department's European representatives makes this encouraging statement: "Developments in the United Kingdom are of an encouraging nature with respect to domestic trading and foreign trade shows a very small gain. In spite of German efforts to prevent price increases, the wholesale index rose during October. The improving trend in Swedish business is maintained with unemployment at lowest level since October, 1931. Conditions in Norway were fairly satisfactory in the third quarter of the year, slightly further improvement being registered. The tendency for business in Greece to improve slowly continues. Austrian foreign trade during September was larger in value than last year and for nine months the adverse balance has been reduced." How the governments of these countries can believe that these improvements can be hastened or even maintained while suspicion and strutting and prating of war are permitted to excite the minds of the people, it is difficult to understand. Even a minimum of common sense would seem to dictate branding as a public enemy any so-called statesman who discussed the possibility of war.

HEALTH INVESTMENT.

Some doctor has said that the greatest gains in health have been made not by curing diseases but by preventing it. Prevention is the chief purpose of most public health work. What can be accomplished is well illustrated by an experiment conducted in one section of New York City with the help of the Millbank Memorial Fund, co-operating with the established health agencies. Before the program of health education was begun, there were 50 deaths a year from diphtheria in that district. During the last 32 months there has not been a single death from that cause and the diphtheria case-rate has dropped from 197 per 100,000 to 24. The pulmonary death rate there has gone from 130 per 100,000 to 32, a decrease of 29 per cent. In the same time the decrease for the Borough of Manhattan was only 4 per cent. In the five-year period before the health demonstration the infant mortality was 95 per 1,000 live births. The decrease from 1929-33 was 20 per cent, as compared with a 4 per cent drop for Manhattan. Even accidents have shown a great decrease. Some of the busiest thoroughfares of the city pass through the district, but the number of persons injured there in the first six months of 1934 was 846, against 1,575 in the same period of 1927. The Millbank Fund contributed $1,000,000 to the work. Its investment in health has clearly paid huge dividends to the community. An Ohio cartoon shows a milkman on the wrong side of the cow, but it may be a left-handed cow.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1932, Ed. A. G. G.)

COMPU-SION.
Two barroom sport in forty-nine To catch some tenderfoot by chance And having guzzled beer and wine Compel the frightened man to dance. They fired their pistols at the floor. They urged him on with hoot and yell. But when at last the fun was o'er The victim hadn't danced so well. He jumped and leaped at their command. But who can think of polse and pose. The dance routine, the manner grand. With bullets bouncing at his toes They called it dancing in their glee. They popped their pistols till he fell. But when a man is frightened he Will never dance so very well. No man is ever at his best Who fires a thing against his will. The pistol-popping days out West Gained neither dancing grace nor skill. By force and fear men may be made To jump and leap until they fall. But dancing done by men afraid Is bitter business after all.

RECORD OF YOUR LIFE.

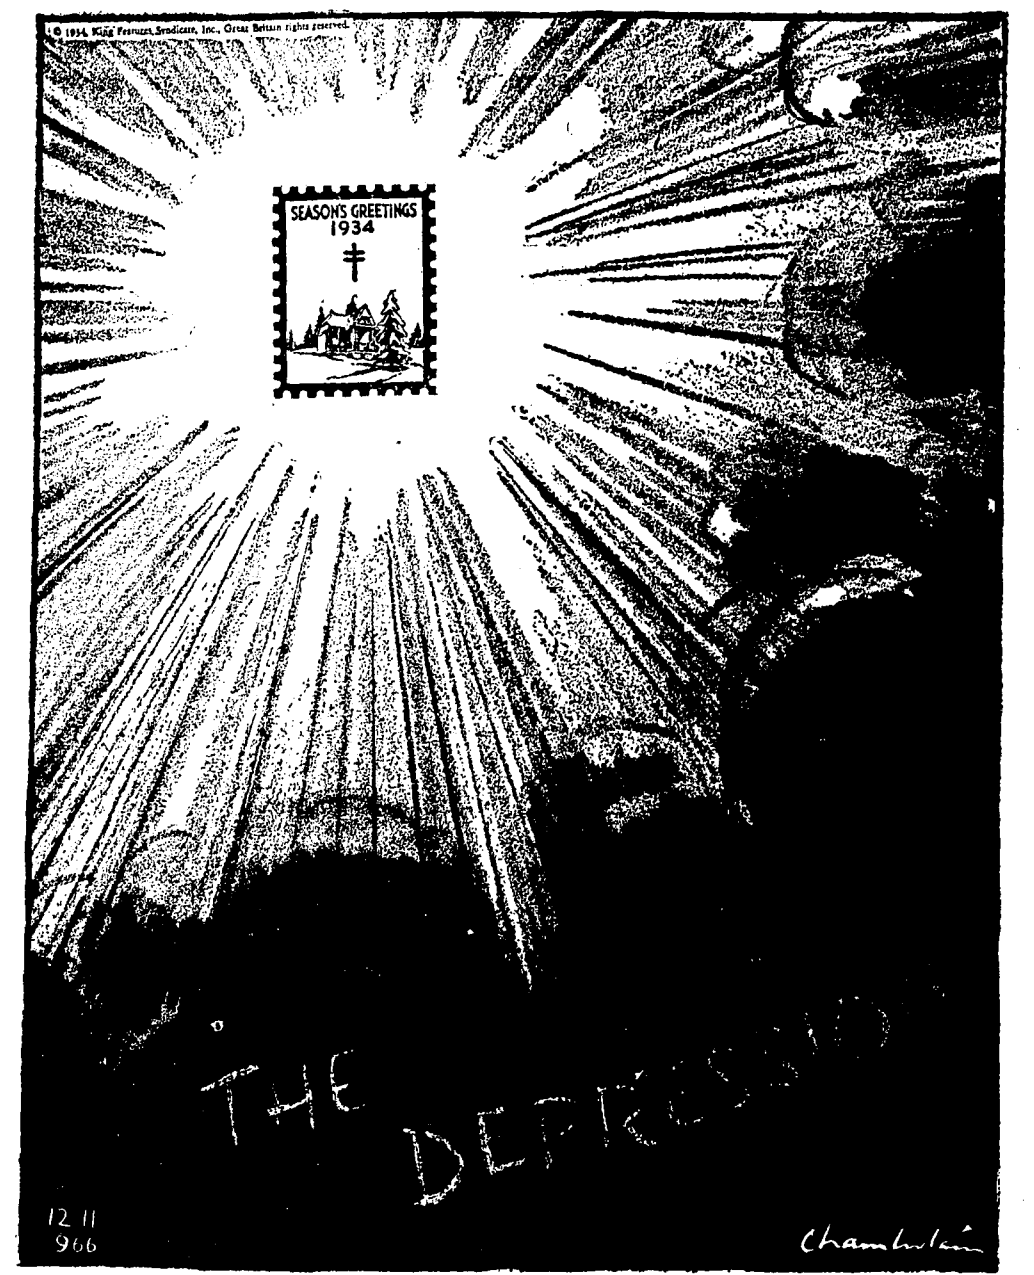

About this time people used to prepare to write the history of their lives for the coming year. They invested in a neatly bound diary, all dated for each day in the year, or some friend gave them one. What a nice thing it would be on the succeeding December 31, to look back and see what they were doing each day. But alas, this enthusiasm often evaporated. The army of diary keepers looked straggling by April 1. Still, many people got a kick out of it. There was little doing in their quiet homes, and suppressed heart throbs and spicy comments were inscribed in these white pages, and they felt better to "get it out of their systems." Not many modern folk want to stop to write a history of their lives. They value the dated diaries to keep a record of engagements and special events. Many seem more anxious to forget the past than to remember it. Our eager and restless folks are peering into the future, while their philosophical ancestors were r'lecting upon the past.

GOOD ROADS, UGLY ROADSIDES

Ever since the motor age began, America has been building itself out of the mud. Now that job is pretty well done. The roads are good. But the roadsides are far uglier than they were in the old days, because of the devastation wrought by paving work, cuts and fills and often by needless destruction of trees, shrubs and grass. The natural, simple and varied beauty of old-fashioned rural highways will never return. It can be replaced, though, by new beauty, adapted to smoother grades and more sweeping curves. Beginnings have been made in many places; but generally speaking, the highways so lavishly provided for motorists are still bare and ugly. This is not only unfortunate. It is foolish. When anybody lays out fine driveways through a private estate, he removes the construction marks and provides something to look at. Many billions of dollars have gone into American highways in the last quarter-century, and are still going into them, and increasing millions of people make driving and touring their chief outdoor sport. Why not finish the job and make the driving more attractive and refreshing by planting grass, wildflowers, shrubs and trees? Astronomers assure us that comets, being only gas, could not destroy the earth. It is possible in a hot election campaign they wouldn't be noticed at all. It's wonder that children survived in the old days, but maybe germs took one look at the dirt and gave up. Whistling is a lost art. About the only whistling you hear nowadays comes from an old-fashioned tea kettle.

A LIGHT THAT HAS NEVER FAILED

—By Clive Weed

READY—SET—GO!

Donald R. Richberg holds no cabinet position and rose to his present eminence through no popular contest, but it is to him, as the president's No. 1 man, that the public looks, next to Mr. Roosevelt, for word on the shape of things to come. Therefore the speech Mr. Richberg made at Atlanta, following hard on the news that business and industry are at last getting set for action, can lend wings to that effort. Mr. Richberg came out flatly against inflation and as fervently for the constitution as any of that revered document's most recent defenders who can be classed as the administration's political foes. The address was pitched in the new key of conciliation and co-operation recently struck at Washington. Private enterprise was lauded, individualism was praised and in the same breath Mr. Richberg condemned "state socialism" and "state control of industry." That is what business and industry has been hoping to hear from the high places in Washington. That is the opposite of what Mr. Richberg's predecessor, General Johnson, let the men of commerce understand. How far our business advance might have reached by now had the administration spoken soothingly six months ago is problematical, but time devoted to speculation might better be employed in a show of that promised business and industrial activity right now. The whole country waits for action, is happy to understand that the days of the whip-cracking are past.

"Adam did more than any other man for literature and drama," says Robert Quillen. "He invented sin." Not at all! The serpent invented it, Eve fell for it, and Adam merely fell for Eve.

If the Red Cross is a war machine, as the American Mercury says, let's stop the manufacture of surgical gauze, antiseptics and emergency rations, and deport the doctors and nurses.

Now they're having sea serpents in British Columbia. And we always regarded the British as a practical, unimaginative race.

HUSKY THROATS
Overtaxed by speaking, singing, smoking.
VICK'S MEDICATED COUGH DROP

SPLASHING PEDESTRIANS

Montreal and a number of other Canadian cities are supplied with a traffic law which makes liable to a jail sentence any motorist who deliberately splashes a pedestrian. That's a step in the right direction. No petty offender along the highway is more downright contemptible than the smart aleck who steps on the gas when he sees a pedestrian near a puddle. His type of offense is without the slightest shred of an excuse, and the wonder is that American courts have permitted him to get away with it for so many years.

DULL SKIES.

The human mind is subtly affected by cloudy skies. When the storms of winter come, people are apt to feel less hopeful. Some traveling salesmen remark that they can never sell much goods on a cloudy or stormy day. People seem to lack confidence. The storms of winter may not seem necessary for our refreshment, but if it were not for them, our water supplies would run dry, and our rivers would not turn their power wheels. The wise philosopher is not much affected by weather. All kinds of skies look good to him. The artist eye sees beauty even when the sky is obscured by clouds. Sunshine is a wonderful thing, but if we had it every day, we should lose all sense of its beauty.

With France and Russia as war allies, Germany will be merely the meat in the sandwich if Hitler starts anything. Some of our popular pessimists seem to resent the rising national income.

Dawes Predicts Next Summer See Depression's End

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(P)—Charles G. Dawes, vice president of the United States under Calvin Coolidge, predicted today that next June or July would mark the death of the depression and the commencement of full business prosperity for the nation. Mass confidence shattered by the market crash of October 29, 1929, was restored by President Roosevelt's bank moratorium in March, 1933, said Dawes. Since that time, he asserted, the general course of business in consumer's goods has reflected no loss in this recovery of confidence. Dawes, former head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and for years a power in the republican party, broke a long silence to address the Chicago Association of Commerce. Sometime early next summer, said Dawes, will come a delayed rush for durable goods which will herald a period of great recovery. "The demand for durable goods, especially heavy durable goods, in a depression, while it always rises last, always rises fastest," said Dawes. "When that rush comes is the beginning of real prosperity."

BLACK-DRAUGHT For CONSTIPATION
"I am 71 years old and have used Thedford's Black-Draught about forty years," writes Mr. W. J. Vanover, of Rome, Ky. "We are never without it. I take it as a purgative when I am bilious, dizzy and have swimming in my head. Black-Draught relieves this, and helps me in many ways." Keep a package of this old, reliable, purely vegetable laxative in your home, and take it for prompt relief at the first sign of constipation.

Protects Valuables From Fire

Wives—have you a husband who doesn't play golf, hunt, fish or admit he plays poker? Or have you a husband that's just naturally hard to pick a Christmas present for? What about giving him a chest to keep his valuable papers in? A chest that will protect them from FIRE as the ordinary lock box can't possibly do? Suppose your house or the office burned tonight? Could you give the insurance company a statement of property, furniture, etc., that was burned? This chest is fire-proof, and is intended for those people who keep valuable papers at home or in their office, but who cannot afford a full size safe. For just a few dollars you can be sure it's your jewelry, and other small valuables are safe. Any man will appreciate such a gift. Go by the City Book Store and let them show you this chest. It's an investment.

VOTE ON BANKHEAD ACT MUST BE CAST BY VOTER IN PERSON

Voters eligible to participate in the balloting on the disposition of the Bankhead cotton production licensing act for 1935 must present themselves in person to the various voting places, according to instructions received by County Agent C. C. Morris for the conducting of the election. No proxy or absentee ballots may be cast.

Some confusion has been reported concerning the form of ballot to be used and local officials clarified this matter Wednesday. The question appears on the ballot—“Shall the Bankhead act be continued in 1935?” with two squares underneath over which appear the words “yes” and “no.” If a farmer favors the continuance of the act for next year he will mark an “X” in the square under “yes,” and leave the remaining square blank; and will mark under “no” if he opposes the continuation.

NAVAL ACCORD HELD POSSIBLE NEXT YEAR BY JAPS-BRITISH

LONDON, Dec. 13. (AP)—Both Japan and the United States are courting Great Britain for a possible future bi-lateral naval accord, diplomatic quarters said today.

This development came with the current conversations of the three greatest sea powers on the threshold of adjournment. They may be resumed next year.

The Japanese delegation joined the British in expressing optimism that an agreement may be possible in 1935 and that it would make every effort to reach one when the talks are resumed.

There appeared little possibility, however, that Tokyo would give up its demand for full equality—which deadlocked the present conversations.

Japan, diplomatic quarters reported, appears just as interested in an accord with Great Britain as the Americans are. While the British privately indicated they might later welcome an agreement with the United States, in the event there is no general naval treaty after 1936, they are doing everything possible to retain friendly relations with Japan.

For this reason separate accords with both Tokyo and Washington are possible.

Three Services At Black Hills Baptist

We had three fine services at the Black Hills Baptist church last second Sunday. Preaching by the pastor, T. R. Vaughn. His subject for the hour was “Norrism or the Bible.” He put it over the top. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the church and pastor, with the assistance of Elder G. H. Vaughn of Pursley and Elder Archer of Ennis ordained three deacons, namely, Bro. Walter Hamilton, Bro. Beckum, Bro. Otis Atkinson.

The church is coming right along in the Lord's work. The folks at Black Hills are trying to stand hard behind their pastor. If people want to go to a friendly church and one that welcomes you, come to Black Hills.

The subject for the evening, 7:30 o'clock, was “Hope.” We went away rejoicing in hope beyond this vale.—Reporter.

NEW PASSENGER CAR REGISTRATIONS FOR NOVEMBER DECLINE

AUSTIN, Dec. 13. (Spl.)—Passenger car registrations in Texas during November declined sharply from October and were even slightly below those of November, 1933, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Reports from fifteen representative counties give a total of 2,935 cars against 3,382 in October and 2,986 in November last year, down to 43.2 and 1.8 per cent respectively. Total registrations for the first eleven months of the year, however, numbering 44,926, were still 28 per cent above those during the corresponding period last year.

“It is interesting to note that, while the decline in registrations in the lowest price bracket was very sharp compared with October, the decline in the second price bracket was only half as great, and in the two highest price groups sales were equal to those in October,” the bureau's report said. “Also, sales in the lowest price group were sharply below those of November, 1933, while sales in the three highest groups were above those of last year and the increase was most marked in the two highest price groups.”

Chicago Blizzard Subsides Tuesday Two Deaths Result

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—(A)—A blinding blizzard that stalled traffic and sent Chicagoans scurrying to cover, had subsided today. Striking yesterday, the snow stalled automobiles and snarled traffic so badly that scores of idlers were seen at night at hotels rather than risk trying to go home. Traffic was near normal, however, today.

More than ten inches of snow fell, and drifts were piled high in the streets. The weather bureau, issued the night a storm warning for the city has experienced for six years.

Two men dropped dead while walking the snow-laden streets. Heart attacks induced by exertion were given as the cause of death.

Case; Is Discharged

WACO, Dec. 11.—(P)—Forty-six hours after it was given the case, a district court jury studying evidence in the trial of Joe Bailey Avirett, Hubbard youth, accused of the slaying of James Malcolm Stuart of Stuart, Texas, was discharged last night.

State prosecutors immediately laid plans for the opening of the trial of Roy Curry, also charged, tomorrow.

The Waco News-Tribune said it had learned nine jurors stood for the death penalty and three for life imprisonment.

Stewart's body was found near his automobile on a highway near here several weeks ago. Curry and Whitt surrendered to officers two days later after being pursued through a driving rain.

GREATEST CAMPAIGN AGAINST CRIME IN NATION'S HISTORY

CO-ORDINATION ALL LAW-ENFORCEMENT UNITS URGED BY THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(P)—Elimination of "political pressure" was described today by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the department of justice's bureau of investigation, as a necessity if gangs are to be permanently exterminated. Addressing the attorney general's crime conference, the man who directed the federal warfare against Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd, "Baby Face" Nelson, and others termed gangsters "vermin of the worst type."

The conference heard Hoover after President Roosevelt last night called for a double-barreled attack on lawlessness in what was described as the greatest campaign of its kind in the country's history.

"Until political pressure is doomed," Hoover said, "and until there arises a constant state of co-operation between all arms of law enforcement we must regard the eradication of gangs like that of Dillinger, Floyd, Bailey and others as a crime conference, a condition which can change overnight."

He said they began as "petty thieves, bootleggers, hangers on of crime" and none was a superman.

Killed From Ambush. "They killed from ambush," he added. "They murdered with machine guns. They were protected by steel vests, a state of living a life of hidden deceptions and robbing and killing to make friends along his rotten path by strewing favors, is not a hero."

Emphasizing that he was not pessimistic, Hoover said:

"I am here to report progress. John Dillinger, the flag bearer of lawlessness, is dead, killed by federal bullets."

Pretty Boy Floyd, who for years laughed at the law, lies in his grave, dead of gunshot wounds inflicted in open battle by our special agents. x x x

They were soldiers, fighting side by side with other brave and honorable soldiers of the division who were against the enemy of the people," he said. "Yet, soldiers though they were, they fought without the support of influences which are the usual lot of soldiers."

"There was no martial roll of drums to buoy their spirits as they went to face their death, no cheer of comrades no blast of bugles nor burst of trumpets—only the vicious rattle of a machine gun in the hands of a gangster who cravenly accepted the aid of his wife knowing that these men of the law would withhold their fire rather than deliberately shoot down a woman."

This was in reference to Mrs. Lester M. Gillis, widow of Baby Face, who now is in a federal prison at Milan, Michigan.

For adding effectiveness to the war against crime, Hoover suggested establishment of a national police or radio broadcast system of police communication, and a national training school for law enforcement officers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(P)—A mandate from President Roosevelt, for a double-barreled attack on lawlessness set the national crime conference to work today on white is called the greatest campaign of its kind in the country's history.

Five hundred experts who applauded the president vigorously after his speech last night started discussions and studies to carry out Mr. Roosevelt's two suggestions.

1. That every law enforcement agency from the justice department down to one-man police forces in hamlets should be co-ordinated.

2. That a "body of public opinion" should be built up to back anti-crime efforts.

relieving localities of responsibilities properly theirs. It seems likely the recommendation to come from the conference will be a national criminological institute—perhaps a sort of university with degree-granting powers—to train peace officers, enlist the aid of science and serve as a national center for the exchange of information.

Calling crime "a symptom of social disorder" in the cure of which every social agency must be active, President Roosevelt told the conference:

"First, I ask you to plan and to construct with scientific and constantly improving administrative structure—a structure which will together every crime preventing, law enforcing agency of every branch of government—the federal government, the 48 state governments and the local governments, including counties, cities and towns."

"Your second task is of equal importance. An administrative structure active in its results unless the people of the United States understand the larger purposes and co-operate with these purposes."

"I ask you therefore to do all in your power to interpret the problem of crime to the people of this country. They must realize the many implications of that word 'crime.'"

The gathering of judges, detectives, lawyers, sociologists, criminologists and officials also heard Attorney General Cummings suggest a national center for the education of peace officers and say:

"We need methods for better selection and training of personnel, laboratory facilities for work in detection and apprehension, opportunities for scientific research."

Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of state, warned against "hysterical" sentimentalism in treating crime and Patrick J. Hurley, former secretary of war, called on every citizen to do his share.

J. Edgar Hoover, commander of the justice department's investigators, planned to take the floor today to discuss on "Detection and Apprehension" telling how the department tracked John Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd and Baby Face Nelson.

Reduction Sought Intrastate Rates

HOUSTON, Dec. 12.—(P)—Representatives of Texas coastal cities concluded a six-day hearing before the Texas railroad commission with the plea that early consideration be given their application for a reduction in intrastate rates to certain interior points.

A. E. Thornton, traffic manager of the Galveston chamber of commerce, termed the situation an emergency. He requested the commission not to require the filing

GUNS ALLEGEDLY USED IN SLAYING OF BORGER SHOWN

CANADIAN, Dec. 13.—(P)—The two guns which the state alleged were used to kill A. P. (Ace) Borger were offered in evidence Wednesday in the trial of Arthur Huey, who is charged with the slaying.

Dan Hardee, Hutchinson county sheriff, testified one gun containing four exploded and two unexploded shells and the other five exploded and one unexploded shells.

Huey's defense failed to prevent the introduction of the five Bullets Sheriff Hardee said he found in the Borger postoffice, where the founder of that Panhandle oil city was killed last Aug. 31. Two bullets removed from Borger's body also were exhibited.

The defense did, however, succeed in having the jury removed when Deputy Sheriff G. L. Warren was testifying that Huey told a surety company representative, after the shooting, to notify the company "I have been checked short in my office."

A Huey is and was at the time of the killing, collected five bullets in county. Frequent defense objections interspersed Warren's testimony.

Dr. Larry Hansen of Borger declared he heard eight or ten shots while sitting in his office across the street from the postoffice. He said he saw flashes of the last three or four shots and that the flashes were in a particular direction. The witness said an examination of Borger's body revealed two wounds in front and five in the back, any one of which would have been fatal.

The state previously had built its case around the testimony of three eye-witnesses. Two of them said they saw Huey firing at Borger's chest, the other testified he saw Huey enter the postoffice with his hand inside his coat, scuffle with Borger, and later fire four shots into Borger's back.

Freighter Making FOR JACKSONVILLE WITH FIRE IN HOLD

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 13.—(P)—The coast guard patrol boat, Vigilant, reported to headquarters here today that she had sighted the freighter Pan Atlantic off Cape Canaveral, Fla., and that the ship, fire still burning in her hold, was making for the port at Jacksonville.

The Vigilant planned to accompany the Pan Atlantic and the coast guard cutter Yamacraw was expected to arrive on the scene within a few hours. Both coast guard craft rushed to the freighter's assistance shortly after 10 o'clock last night when the Pan Atlantic radioed her hold was afire and asked the coast guard for help.

The freighter, a 7,000-ton vessel owned by the Pan Atlantic line of Mobile, Ala., was making six knots an hour under her own power. Her position off Cape Canaveral indicated she could not make port here before sometime tomorrow. Apparently she was not immediately danger.

About 100 men make up the freighter's crew. Captain R. West is the skipper and the ship carries a general cargo.

The Pan Atlantic left Mobile December 8 and had a scheduled stop scheduled for Panama City, Fla., Tampa, Fla., Philadelphia and New York.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 13.—(P)—Services for W. T. Waggoner, 82, Fort Worth capitalist, and pioneer West Texas ranchman, who died Tuesday night, were held here today.

Private services were conducted at the home by Rev. J. N. R. Score, pastor of the First Methodist church, and a public service at the grave in East Oakwood cemetery.

Banks closed during the funeral.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 13.—(P)—Immediate members of the family gathered here today for funeral services of W. T. Waggoner, 82, last of the great cattle king and father of Texas horse racing.

A brief public service at the family mausoleum for the pioneer, said to be the wealthiest man west of the Mississippi, was planned.

The various business enterprises in which he was interested closed for the day. Classes were dismissed at the Texas Woman's College where three buildings bore his name.

The Rev. J. N. R. Score, pastor of the First Methodist church, who named to officiate at the service, Pallbearers were George Thompson, Jr., Ed Corbett and R. M. Bowen of Fort Worth; D. G. Gray of Elberta; Ed P. Gibson and George Gage of Decatur; Tommy Reed of Vernon and W. C. Hiett of Arlington.

Of briefs in the case but that case be decided upon the record.

Representatives of the Texas and Pacific railway said the present scale of operations was the present scale of attracting business and added that the line was handling less than its capacity.

Six Persons Are Injured in M. P. Wreck Tuesday

PALESTINE, Dec. 11.—(P)—The derailment of a northbound Missouri Pacific passenger train near New Baden today injured six persons, several of them seriously.

The injured, who were brought to the railroad hospital here, were:

R. W. Holcomb, Palestine, collar bone broken.

Mrs. R. C. Wicke, San Antonio, laceration and contusion of right leg; probably fractured.

W. A. Longhorn, Memphis, Tenn., contusions and sprain of left shoulder, not serious.

Langston Branch, mail clerk, San Antonio, severe back injury, possibly skull injury, lacerations on head and arms. Condition serious.

Lee Boyd, sheriff of Palestine, knocked unconscious and severely shaken.

Ella Mae Murphy, nee, San Antonio, severe scalp lacerations and cuts over body.

The derailment occurred on a curve when the train snapped. Two Pullman coaches, one chair car and a baggage car left the tracks and crashed against the side of a cut bank.

The baggage car, which was right of way, and a rail car, used for usual and unusual governmental activities. Present indications are that the lobby that will attend the session will be one of the largest in recent years.

The deficit now totals about $16,000,000. It is increasing at the rate of approximately $4,000,000 per year, although it will show a sharp decline during the next few weeks owing to current tax collections.

Industry is crying for relief from present burdens and contends any increase in overhead costs through additional taxation will prove ruinous. Real estate, it is generally asserted, is bearing more than its just share of the cost of supporting the government.

Cognizant of the condition the senate established a tax investigation committee of three to recommend a plan of taxation. Several house members voluntarily joined the discussions since revenue measures must originate in the lower branch.

No Sales Tax. The way for raising revenue in substantial amounts by imposition of a general sales tax appears to have been effectively blocked by the campaign promise of Governor-elect James V. Allred that he would veto a measure of this nature if passed by the legislature.

The Democratic platform also contains a pledge to oppose the sales tax and it is doubtful if a two-thirds vote could be mustered in the legislature to override a veto by the governor.

Whether Allred's antagonism to that type of tax extends to all its forms, including a sales tax on luxuries and semi-luxuries, has not been determined.

An income tax likely will find favor in the house, a majority of which has expressed strong opposition to the general sales tax. An income tax bill was passed at the last regular session in the house, 70 to 55, as a substitute for the sales tax but the proposal died in the senate.

Increased Oil Tax. There is strong sentiment in certain legislative quarters for an increase in the oil production tax from the present two cents a barrel to five cents and for a material raise in the natural gas production tax. Governors of oil producing states have been requested to consider the matter of a uniform tax on crude petroleum and it will be discussed as a conference called for early in January.

State Comptroller George H. Sheppard is working on amendments to bolster collection features of existing tax laws, believing thousands of dollars annually are lost to the state through "leakage."

In line with Sheppard's idea the legislature will be asked to establish a separate department to supervise the collection of taxes, now scattered through several branches with no central agency. Authors assert it will assure the state of a maximum return from its levies.

Other Tax Openings. A stamp tax on notes and mortgages, which would be made uncollectable unless stamped, increases in the inheritance, gross receipts and intangible assets tax and enforcement of the ad valorem tax on motor vehicles are included in other suggestions that will be offered.

A tax certain to find support in the house would impose a graduated levy on chain stores, low on small chains with stiff levies on the larger groups. Such a tax would accomplish a dual purpose from the point of view of its sponsors by bringing in badly needed revenue and reduce the competition given by chains to independent merchants.

In view of the strained condition of the treasury it is impossible any serious effort will be made to reduce the state ad valorem tax on real estate.

The administration, in all probability, will seek resumption of a constitutional amendment, overwhelmingly defeated at the November election, permits the legislature to classify property for tax purposes. Allred hailed the amendment as the most practical method by which realty taxes could be reduced and championed it strongly.

Expenditures Reductions. An attempt to reduce governmental expenditures even further than cuts made by the last regular session by combining department services and eliminating duplication services is forecast. Representative Harry N. Graves of Georgetown will seek enactment of the major provisions of an exhaustive report presented by his committee to the last legislature designed to reduce the number of boards and departments from 180 to about 100.

The fact that the state is on a deficit, with little prospect of getting out of the red in the immediate future, makes it extremely unlikely any building program of major proportions at either educational or eleemosynary institutions will be authorized. At a recent session the legislature authorized construction of buildings at several eleemosynary institutions to care for emergency requirements and it is probable this program will have to suffice for the biennium unless revenue from an unanticipated source is available.

Salary Cuts May Remain. Proposed restoration of the heavy salary cuts of state employees ordered by the last legislature likewise will be adversely affected by the treasury's condition. A portion of the cuts, which ranged from 15 to 40 per cent, might be reinstated.

The new administration is pledged to support enactment of a law to establish a state commission to regulate rates of all public utilities. The state board would be given concurrent jurisdiction on luxuries and rate matters but also would have the authority to institute rate cases if it deemed it necessary. At present the state has jurisdiction only over gas utilities.

The Democratic party, and Allred, have been committed to submission of repeal of state prohibition in the form of the submit resolution might set off oratorical fireworks, the dry bloc having indicated it would press for stringent regulations in the submission resolution.

Score. The tax questions will bring scores of lobbyists to Austin who would be placed under strict rules if Allred's desire for a strong anti-lobbying law is given recognition. Allred, in his campaign, severely condemned lobbying tactics and would subject lobbyists to rigid supervision.

Relief financing will cause the new administration and legislature much worry. The state has in reserve $3,500,000 in state relief bonds to match federal grants. Officials hope legislative initiative will relieve some of the burden so that extensive financing by the state will not be necessary.

Judicial and legislative redempting enactment of universal drivers' license law, ratification of the child labor amendment to the

NUMBER VEXATIOUS PROBLEMS OF WIDE PUBLIC INTEREST TO FACE LEGISLATURE; TAXATION

Editor's Note.—This is the first of a series of three stories on the problems that will confront the Texas legislature in January. The next will follow tomorrow.

By CHARLES E. SIMONS Associated Press Staff Writer.

AUSTIN, Dec. 11.—(P)—Vexatious problems on numerous subjects of wide public interest, the foremost including taxation, prohibition, lobbying, government reorganization and relief, will confront the 44th Texas legislature when it convenes in regular session January 8.

The most puzzling question on the agenda of major topics is that of finding additional sources of revenue to wipe out the heavy deficit in the general revenue and confederate pension funds, meet the extraordinary burden imposed on state finances by relief requirements and provide for ordinary expenses.

Legislators and state fiscal officers are approaching the question with caution and industry and the tax bearing public generally are keeping a watchful eye on the plans being formulated to regulate the deficit and raise funds for usual and unusual governmental activities. Present indications are that the lobby that will attend the session will be one of the largest in recent years.

Huge Deficit. The deficit now totals about $16,000,000. It is increasing at the rate of approximately $4,000,000 per year, although it will show a sharp decline during the next few weeks owing to current tax collections.

Industry is crying for relief from present burdens and contends any increase in overhead costs through additional taxation will prove ruinous. Real estate, it is generally asserted, is bearing more than its just share of the cost of supporting the government.

Cognizant of the condition the senate established a tax investigation committee of three to recommend a plan of taxation. Several house members voluntarily joined the discussions since revenue measures must originate in the lower branch.

No Sales Tax. The way for raising revenue in substantial amounts by imposition of a general sales tax appears to have been effectively blocked by the campaign promise of Governor-elect James V. Allred that he would veto a measure of this nature if passed by the legislature.

The Democratic platform also contains a pledge to oppose the sales tax and it is doubtful if a two-thirds vote could be mustered in the legislature to override a veto by the governor.

Whether Allred's antagonism to that type of tax extends to all its forms, including a sales tax on luxuries and semi-luxuries, has not been determined.

An income tax likely will find favor in the house, a majority of which has expressed strong opposition to the general sales tax. An income tax bill was passed at the last regular session in the house, 70 to 55, as a substitute for the sales tax but the proposal died in the senate.

Increased Oil Tax. There is strong sentiment in certain legislative quarters for an increase in the oil production tax from the present two cents a barrel to five cents and for a material raise in the natural gas production tax. Governors of oil producing states have been requested to consider the matter of a uniform tax on crude petroleum and it will be discussed as a conference called for early in January.

State Comptroller George H. Sheppard is working on amendments to bolster collection features of existing tax laws, believing thousands of dollars annually are lost to the state through "leakage."

In line with Sheppard's idea the legislature will be asked to establish a separate department to supervise the collection of taxes, now scattered through several branches with no central agency. Authors assert it will assure the state of a maximum return from its levies.

Other Tax Openings. A stamp tax on notes and mortgages, which would be made uncollectable unless stamped, increases in the inheritance, gross receipts and intangible assets tax and enforcement of the ad valorem tax on motor vehicles are included in other suggestions that will be offered.

A tax certain to find support in the house would impose a graduated levy on chain stores, low on small chains with stiff levies on the larger groups. Such a tax would accomplish a dual purpose from the point of view of its sponsors by bringing in badly needed revenue and reduce the competition given by chains to independent merchants.

In view of the strained condition of the treasury it is impossible any serious effort will be made to reduce the state ad valorem tax on real estate.

The administration, in all probability, will seek resumption of a constitutional amendment, overwhelmingly defeated at the November election, permits the legislature to classify property for tax purposes. Allred hailed the amendment as the most practical method by which realty taxes could be reduced and championed it strongly.

Expenditures Reductions. An attempt to reduce governmental expenditures even further than cuts made by the last regular session by combining department services and eliminating duplication services is forecast. Representative Harry N. Graves of Georgetown will seek enactment of the major provisions of an exhaustive report presented by his committee to the last legislature designed to reduce the number of boards and departments from 180 to about 100.

The fact that the state is on a deficit, with little prospect of getting out of the red in the immediate future, makes it extremely unlikely any building program of major proportions at either educational or eleemosynary institutions will be authorized. At a recent session the legislature authorized construction of buildings at several eleemosynary institutions to care for emergency requirements and it is probable this program will have to suffice for the biennium unless revenue from an unanticipated source is available.

Salary Cuts May Remain. Proposed restoration of the heavy salary cuts of state employees ordered by the last legislature likewise will be adversely affected by the treasury's condition. A portion of the cuts, which ranged from 15 to 40 per cent, might be reinstated.

The new administration is pledged to support enactment of a law to establish a state commission to regulate rates of all public utilities. The state board would be given concurrent jurisdiction on luxuries and rate matters but also would have the authority to institute rate cases if it deemed it necessary. At present the state has jurisdiction only over gas utilities.

The Democratic party, and Allred, have been committed to submission of repeal of state prohibition in the form of the submit resolution might set off oratorical fireworks, the dry bloc having indicated it would press for stringent regulations in the submission resolution.

Score. The tax questions will bring scores of lobbyists to Austin who would be placed under strict rules if Allred's desire for a strong anti-lobbying law is given recognition. Allred, in his campaign, severely condemned lobbying tactics and would subject lobbyists to rigid supervision.

Relief financing will cause the new administration and legislature much worry. The state has in reserve $3,500,000 in state relief bonds to match federal grants. Officials hope legislative initiative will relieve some of the burden so that extensive financing by the state will not be necessary.

RESTRAINING ORDER IS SOUGHT AGAINST FEDERAL TENDERS

EAST TEXAS REFINERY OWNER PETITIONS FOR INJUNCTION RESTRAIN BOARD

KILGORE, Dec. 12.—(P)—At a meeting of the federal tender board today, G. A. Sadler, owner of Tyreco Refining Company No. 2, presented the board with a copy of a petition to Federal Judge Randolph Bryant asking a temporary injunction against the board enforcing federal constitution; twice blocked in the senate after house approval; an appropriation for the Texas Centennial and a constitutional convention to revamp the fundamental law are among other subjects that will command wide attention.

(Tomorrow: Public utilities, oil, the school system, Labor.)

The petition was based on a contention that the regulations were discriminatory in that they apply only to East Texas and affect only other part of the United States. In presenting the board with a copy of the petition, Sadler said: "They call you carthagians and call you savages out of a jungle. Personally, I like the work you have been doing."

Myers then asked: "Then if boards were established over the United States, your case would be dropped?"

"That's right," Sadler replied.

HINTS FOR BUSINESS GIRLS

WOMEN IN BUSINESS

Where it's time that counts, which is the business girl's problem, Miss Forbes' suggestion about weekly beauty treatments will be invaluable.

Every good business woman realizes one thing, that no matter what happens during the day, or how many distractions the evening offers, she must above all keep fit. If she doesn't, and allows herself to run down physically, it is the first sign of failure. Therefore, she must look after her health with the same care that she would give her fingernails or her complexion.

One of the E. K. Forbes best and cheapest ways to do this would be to find a health club or a Turkish bath, preferably some place open in the evening. Then let her have a Turkish bath, if she has time for it, or an electric cabinet bath if she has not. There is nothing so good for the health or the complexion as the heavy perspiration, the scrubbing and rub-down which follow this sort of bath. At its conclusion she should soak her face with cream while she rests, unless she can take the time and the money for a regular facial.

She should in any case have her hair shampooed and set, and she could at the same time have her nails done. This fairly simple treatment will give her the three essentials she will need for the business week, that is, nails, hair and skin in good condition. It will, of course, give her more because it will rest and relax her, and clear away the poisons so often induced by work and worry.

These bath places, however, offer more than this. Once a month she can have a colonic, a thing needed by everyone who spends most of the day bending over a desk. Once a month also, she can have a pedicure, for no one can be efficient and businesslike with aching feet. Fortunately, ately for a girl on a salary these treatments in a Turkish bath are fairly cheap and more than worth what they cost.

H. M.—There must be some internal cause for very young person having very dry skin. Possibly over-acidity, or a run down state with poor circulation. It is not natural and it should be easily corrected. Of course, use plenty of oil to help soften the skin over your face, and protect them with gloves when doing any kind of work that will make the skin even more dry than it is naturally. If you immerse the hands very much, especially in hot water, rub plenty of oil into them and slip on rubber gloves. The heat will help your skin take up more of the oil than the usual treating with it. Rub a little fine oil into skin whenever it feels too dry, but find out what is causing the dryness and have it corrected. A girl of 18 need not have hands that appear to be shriveled, nor a skin that does not have all the freshness of youth in it.

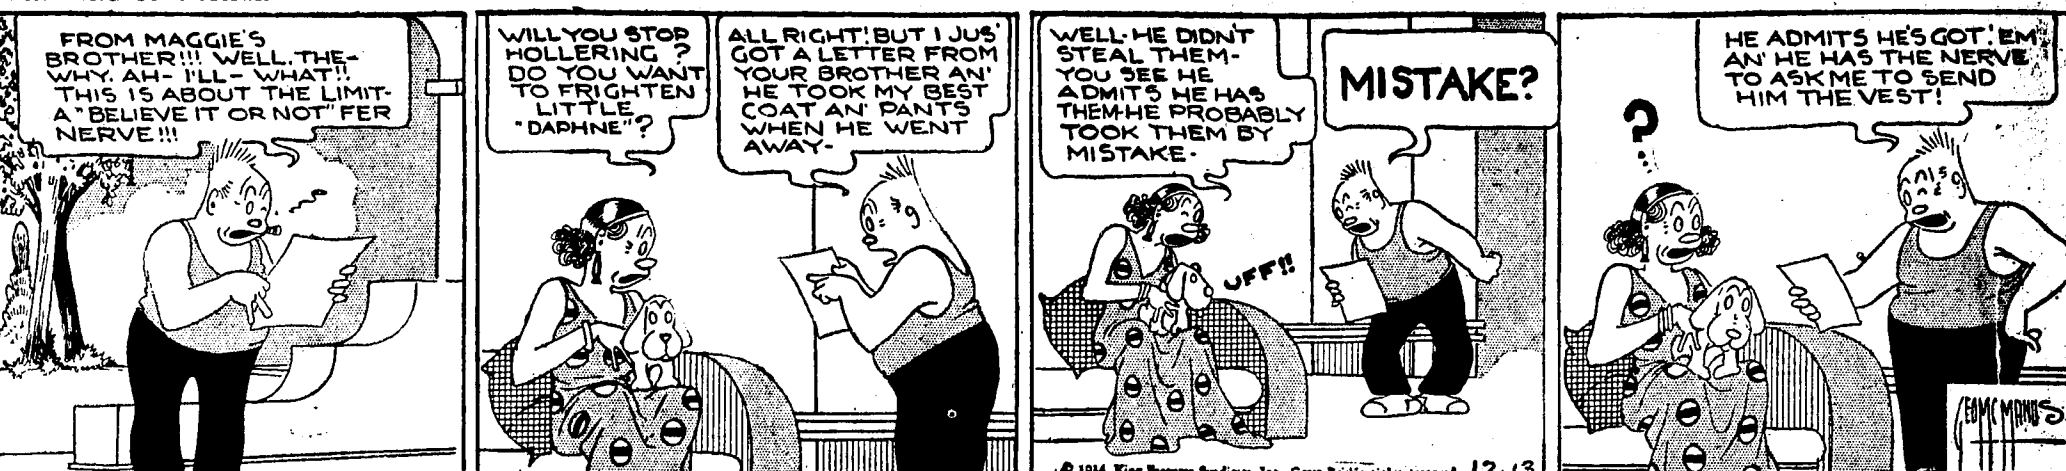

Mrs. I. D. C.—As you do not care to reduce your weight generally, the only way you could get rid of some of it, if over the hips and legs would be thorough exercising for the entire lower portion of the body. A woman carrying 185 pounds might need some supervision in taking exercises that would effect the reduction, whether it were done through dieting, or just through exercises. If you could go to a gymnasium, such as those of the Y. W. C. A. you could get this supervision, and have convenient apparatus for taking just the exercises that would rid you of the excess weight, as you wish it done. If you prefer to try the exercising at home do the one for the hips, of bending forward and turning all the way around at the waistline from right around to left, and then reverse the direction.

side building. She said she saw no guns and did not know who fired the shots. Other shots were fired after she left the post-office, she testified.

Sheriff On Stand Again.
Recalled to the stand for a fourth time, Sheriff Han Hardee of Hutchinson county identified a bullet as one taken from Duncan's body.

Defense objections to the testimony on the ground that it was an attempt to prove a separate offense were overruled by District Judge E. J. Pickens, defense counsel took exception to the ruling.

Sheriff Hardee said the bullet taken from the body of Duncan was similar to ones fired from the large gun the State alleges was used by Huey in the shooting. This pistol, a smaller, pocket-handled one, is reported to have been carried by Borger already had been offered in evidence. The bullet could not have been fired from the smaller gun, the witness said.

The shoulder scabbard witness said was found on Borger's body also was offered in evidence. Sheriff Hardee demonstrated how it was worn and said it was a "quick-draw" type of holster. He showed that the pearl-handled pistol would fit in the scabbard and that the large one would not.

Qualifications Attacked.
Huey's attorney Hardee's qualifications as a ballistics expert and questioned him closely about the type and make of bullets used in the shooting.

Although the prosecution rested, it asked permission to present one or two more witnesses in its main case later.

H. Turner, an employee of the postoffice at Borger—the town attacked by A. P. Borger in 1928—was the first witness called by defense. Turner was an eyewitness to the shooting and was expected to offer the first link in evidence through which the defense hopes to win acquittal for Huey on the ground of self-defense.

District Attorney W. L. McConnell brought out the testimony about Duncan in an effort to show what became of the nine bullets witnesses said were fired from the two guns used in the shooting.

Argue Over Testimony.
CANADIAN, Dec. 13.—(P)—Prosecutors and defense counsel today argued over admissibility of testimony concerning the slaying of an innocent bystander as testimony in the trial of Arthur Huey, Hutchinson county tax assessor and collector, remained at a standstill.

Testimony concerning the slaying of A. P. Borger, for which Huey stands charged, was halted yesterday when state prosecutors attempted to present testimony about the killing of L. J. Duncan, a bystander in the Borger postoffice when Borger's slain.

L. J. McConnell, district attorney, contended the evidence was necessary to establish what became of the nine bullets witnesses said were fired from two guns. The state sought to show, McConnell said, that one of the bullets removed from Duncan's body was similar to those found in Huey's gun.

The defense argued the point was irrelevant and immaterial. C. Carver, Borger undertaker, told of finding a pistol holster under Borger's left arm and identified a flattened bullet found in the slain man's body. R. B. Cowan, utilities official and deputy sheriff, said three shots were fired while Huey and Borger rolled on the floor of the Borger postoffice.

The previous testimony of two postal employees was that they saw Huey fire three times at Borger's chest while the two men were standing.

KENNAMER

participated in the early framing of a kidnap plot against Miss Virginia Wilcox, and who refused to go through with it, that the plot was "in conclusion."

"We were told by Sergeant Madson it might be a good idea to have him in a quiet place for a while," the father told the Tulsa Tribune. His name was not revealed.

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 13.—(P)—An effort to seal the lips of a defendant in the defense against the murder of John F. Gorrell, was blunted today by the 19-year-old defendant for the death of Edward Horn, 77, found fatally wounded several days after Gorrell was slain.

Disclosing in detail the story he plans to tell at his trial, Kennamer said Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, said he learned Kennamer intended to thwart an extortion plot against the family of Edward Wilcox, Sr., wealthy oil man.

"Born was murdered," Kennamer declared in an interview. "I know of the persons who would have reason to do it and who are capable of it."

"Born could have helped my defense and he may have talked too much of what he knew of the things."

Police hold to the theory that Horn, 17-year-old son of a college professor, committed suicide, while Sheriff Charles Price believes the youth was murdered.

Learned of Kidnap Plot.
Relating events of the Gorrell case, Kennamer said he learned early in September of a plot to kidnap either the son or daughter of the Wilcoxs, and later suggested that an extortion note would be better.

"He told of a trip to Kansas City where he said he planned to obtain evidence against Gorrell, a 23-year-old dental student. Gorrell, he related, wrote the extortion note and instructed him to mail it. This he did not do, he said."

Meeting Gorrell here Thanksgiving night, Kennamer said he entered the latter's motor car and started pistol snapping.

HOTEL FIRE

police listed 25 "known dead," with 23 bodies recovered, 16 of them identified.

Eleven bodies, of which the consuming flames left little more than a charred mass, had been taken from the ice-shed debris of what once was one of the state capital's popular meeting places. All were beyond identification, except for a few personal effects, such as rings or other trinkets found with some of them.

The mortality list among the guests who sought escape from the flames by jumping from upper windows to the street or into the Grand river, which flows at the rear of the hotel, was increased by one as state Representative D. Knox Hanna, of Tuscola county, died of his injuries. He was the seventh member of the state legislature to die, six of them representatives and one a senator. At least a score of legislators were staying in the hotel during an extraordinary "lame duck" legislative session necessitated by petitions for a recount growing out of the November election.

Tragedy Broke Deadlock.
The tragedy broke an impending deadlock in the next house of representatives. Fifty republicans and 50 democrats were elected, or re-elected. Three re-elected democrats died, leaving the democrats theoretically in control, pending special elections which cannot be held before the house organizes for the regular session in January.

Three bodies were found in the ruins this morning, and moved to a temporary morgue set up in a nearby warehouse.

The "known dead," which included those whose bodies have been identified and others known to have been in the hotel and unreported since the fire, included:

List Known Dead.
State Representative John W. Goodwin, 67, Marietta, Mich., body taken from Grand river.

Representative T. Henry Howlett, 64, Gregory, Mich., died of skull fracture.

Representative D. Knox Hanna, 60, Caro, died of injuries.

Representative Charles D. Parker, 57, Otisville, died of skull fracture.

Representative W. Sias, Midland, died of injuries.

State Senator John Leidlein, 70, Saginaw, body taken from fire, identified by teeth.

James Gratrix, 50, 6276 Avondale avenue, Chicago, died of injuries.

The Rev. Mr. George Korteling, Cedar Rapids, Ia., died of injuries.

Mr. Korteling, Cedar Rapids, Ia., died of injuries.

Russell S. McFarland, Dayton, O., representative of National Biscuit Co., died of injuries.

H. Millard, 45, South Norwalk, Conn., salesman, body not identified.

Charles B. Searle, Fort Wayne, Ind., oil salesman, body not identified.

Isaac Wisneff, 46, Lansing, formerly of Los Angeles, died of injuries.

Leo E. Morris, Detroit, body taken from ruins and identified by still legible cancelled check.

A. B. Bosman, 36, Grand Rapids, suffocated by smoke.

David Monroe, manager of hotel, body taken from ruins and identified.

Clarence Smith, Coldwater, Mich., died of injuries.

Fred Barnard, Lansing, body not identified.

J. H. Byrnes, Grand Rapids, Mich., body not identified.

C. L. Fisher, Marshall, Mich., body not identified.

Chris Germer, 41, Saginaw, body not identified.

R. E. Horney, 35, Detroit, salesman for Champion Spark Plug Co., Toledo, Ohio, body not identified.

Joel Palmer, 43, Ionia, Mich., field representative Joint Union Stock Land Bank of Detroit; body not identified.

Mrs. Elsa Robbins, 39, matron state capitol building; body not identified.

Lloyd Rockey, 38, Addison, Mich., salesman, body not identified.

Robert E. Shepherd, 29, Grand Rapids, body not identified but hope abandoned by family.

Edward Booth, Grand Rapids, body not identified, but hope abandoned by family.

Estimates of the probable total dead ran around 35.

Another Body Found.
LANSING, Mich., Dec. 13.—(P)—Discovery of a body in the Grand River has brought the death toll in the Kern Hotel fire to 23.

Officials said they were convinced the complete loss of life would never be known because many of the missing were so destroyed by the fire that their remains could not be assembled for a definite casualty list.

Bodies have been recovered, some from the blackened ruins of the hotel and others from the river, into which many guests jumped from their windows. The latest body seen in the river, which flows behind the hotel, was found by a diver beneath the ice floes last night. It will be brought to the surface today, and further search of the river for more bodies will be made.

Fifteen bodies have been identified.

The had been married less than two years.

Dispatches from China at the time of their disappearance from their residence at Tsingteh indicate they had been kidnaped by Chinese communist soldiers, fleeing from government soldiers who are attempting to wipe the outlaws out of the province.

The trigger.

"I don't know who was more surprised," Kennamer said, "at his action or he at the gun's failing to explode."

They wrestled for the pistol, Kennamer said, and it was disarmed. The second shot was fired almost instantly as the car struck a curb, he said.

J. R. Bruner of the Rural Shade community was a Corsicana visitor Thursday morning.

The annual million dollar income list from 1915 to 1920 showed the names of three Astors, two Binghams, four Dodges, six DuPonts, two Fords, three Harknesses, one Mellon, two Morgans, three Rockefeller, two Vanderbilts and two Whitneys.

The list showed that Vincent Astor had a million dollar or more income each year from 1915 to 1919 inclusive.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(P)—Close cooperation between his committee to take the profit out of war and the senate committee investigating munitions, was suggested today by President Roosevelt.

He made this suggestion during a talk with Senator Clark (D-Mo.), a member of the munitions committee.

When the President named a group yesterday to investigate war profits several senators were irritated because that action was taken before they had finished their inquiry.

The President brought up the subject, Clark said.

"Mr. Roosevelt told me he expected his war profits committee to cooperate with our senate committee and vice versa," Clark added.

Benard M. Baruch, former war industries board chairman who is heading the Roosevelt committee to draft legislation, said the President and his group would consult freely with members of the senate and house.

"I see no basis for conflict between the two committees," Clark said. "We are trying our best to get something done and well come aid."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(P)—A warning that any attempt to sidetrack the senate arms inquiry would lead to a bitter fight in congress came today from members of the investigating committee as President Roosevelt's independent move to make war profits got under way.

At the same time it became clear that the program to be drawn by Bernard M. Baruch, Hugh S. Johnson and other prominent new dealers named by the President probably will center around these cardinal points:

1. Should war break out, prices would be "frozen" immediately to prevent skyrocketing.

2. War profits would be seized by drastic taxation. A 1932 report of the war policies commission, on which the President's new board will base its study, urged a 95 per cent tax on all income above the "previous three-year average."

3. Machinery would be created for the swift mobilization of the nation's industrial resources in time of conflict.

Administration officials strove today to remove an unconcealed feeling by some members of the senate munitions committee that the President's move was designed to check the senate inquiry.

After the committee chairman, Senator Nye (R-Ind.) had said it was "amazing" that "efforts should now be made to seem to check and halt" the committee work, President Roosevelt made plain that congressional leaders to take profit out of war.

Also, Baruch, who heads the Presidential board, said after a conference at the white house that he hoped the senate committee would continue its work, which he praised highly.

Secretary of War Dorn, who omitted to keep a reported engagement with committee members recently, planned to confer with them today.

Four of the seven senators on the munitions committee agreed the inquiry would go ahead. They planned to plunge today into an investigation of how the war department procures its supplies.

CANTOR

I know lots of million dollar failures and many more hundred thousand dollar successes.

It is not the money put into the film that counts. It is the story, thought, inspiration, and honesty behind the film that counts.

Made Good Films.
Years ago Italy made some of the best films in the world. "Quo Vadis" and "Cabiria" are among them. But the advent of talkies changed the situation. If you take American actors and put them into gorgeous Italian situations in Italy you have undoubtedly a wonderful success for a picture.

I thought to go into Premier Mussolini's office to have some fun, besides giving him a message. But I saw he was interested far more in doing something that was good for Italy than just cracking jokes.

I found him a very human sort of a man. I first realized then why Italy was worshipped him all these years. I wonder if they appreciate him in Europe.

Policeman of Europe.
He not only is a great man in Italy. He is the policeman of Europe. You have but to show Mussolini on a news reel in the United States and the theatre will be swept with applause. The only other man who can equal him in this is President Roosevelt.

It is not difficult to recognize the sincerity of Mussolini, which has won the admiration of all people.

Mussolini asked me if I had been in Italy before. I told him in 1926, he asked me if I noticed many changes. I told him I noticed wonderful changes, such as roads, reclaimed swamps, houses being built wholesale, and people being re-employed. All these must be underlined, because here one sees happy people.

I certainly have seen none happier than the Italians. Maybe this is so because they know that if there is any getting out of the throes of this depression they have a better chance with Mussolini as leader than any other country in the world.

morning at 10 o'clock from the family home with burial in Oakwood cemetery. The rites will be conducted by Rev. T. Edgar Neal, pastor of the First Methodist church, assisted by Rev. H. J. Ellis, rector of St. John's Episcopal church.

Operated Gin.
Mr. Lea in earlier days operated one of the few up-to-date gins in this community and was a land owner of a large scale and also raised fine hogs at one time.

While operating his gin which stood near where his home is located at the corner of West Seventh avenue and South Twentieth street Mr. Lea discovered excellent water at a minor depth near the gin and later had dug several large wells in that sector where he owned considerable property and operated a private water system for several years.

Later on when oil was discovered in and near Corsicana he engaged in the oil business to some extent and drilled several wildcat wells over the county, the last operation being the well drilled only a few years ago north of the Corsicana Country club, on the Emhouse road. This operation failed to find oil in paying quantities.

Mr. Lea was a kindly, friendly man, one of the old school of Southerners whose word was as good as his bond—who dealt fairly with his fellowmen and expected all others to do the same. Always courteous and never in too big a hurry to give a friendly and helping hand to the younger generations he had gained and held warm friendships in all walks of life in Corsicana and Navarro county and although he had retired from active business life several years ago, his passing will be deeply regretted by his hosts of friends.

The funeral will be directed by the Sutherland-McCammon Funeral home.

Singers Meet Friday Night.
The Navarro County singing class will meet Friday night at the I. O. O. F. auditorium. It was announced this may be the last meeting until after the holidays, and a large crowd is anticipated.

Fewer Commercial Failures November

AUSTIN, Dec. 13.—(Sp)—Insofar as commercial failures reflect conditions in Texas business, the situation during November was quite favorable, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. There were only 17 defaults during last month against 19 in October and 27 in November last year, declines of 42 and 59 per cent, respectively. Liabilities of the bankrupt firms totalling $147,000 represents a decline of 10 per cent from October and 68 per cent from November, 1933. Average liability per failure, $13,364, was 55 per cent greater than in October but 22 per cent less than in November last year.
